Sec. Stimson Asks Congress for National Service Measure

Senate Committee Told Industrial Unrest at Home Causes Dissention Among Troops.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—Secretary of War Stimson asked congress for national service legislation today with the assertion that industrial unrest and a "lack of a sense of patriotic responsibility" on the home front has "aroused a strong feeling of resentment and injustice among the men of the armed forces."

"It will be tragic indeed if the discontent and resentment felt by our gallant soldiers on the fighting fronts burns deeply and festers in the hearts," he told the senate military committee. "Unless we set forth boldly to stamp it out, the hot flame will destroy some of the great love of country which, alone, can make a man endure the hardship, the pain and the death which service above self has offered them.

"The voices of these soldiers speak out very clearly today in demanding that all Americans accept the same liability which a soldier must accept for service to country. They are far away now, but some day they will return."

Adverse Affect on Troops

Reviewing recent labor troubles in the railroad, coal and steel industries, the secretary declared "it does not require great imagination to realize the effect of these occurrences upon our troops," and added:

"I believe it is hazardous to belittle the effect which such a situation will have upon the ultimate welfare of our democracy.

"If it continues, it will surely affect the morale of the Army. It is likely to prolong the war and endanger our ultimate success and when those troops come back to us . . . it may have an effect upon the future unity of our nation which is disturbing to contemplate."

"The men in the Army see this country divided into two entirely distinct classes," Stimson said. "On the one hand are the men who are fighting in the armed forces . . . they have been told not only that they must serve, but the time, the place and the method of their service has been chosen for them. . . . they are facing a duty which they cannot escape and which involves the possibility of death or mutilation.

"On the other side they see that the government imposes no corresponding duty upon the remaining men of the nation and even permits them to leave the most important war jobs without regard to the needs of the country."

The armed forces, he stated are "beginning to feel that they are being discriminated against."

Stimson branded as wishful thinking all talk that the war is almost over.

"In fact the war is not almost over," he declared.

"To me it appears to be the plain duty of the congress to give our troops this all-out necessary backing," he told the senate military committee as it reopened hearings on national service legislation requested by President Roosevelt to prevent strikes and make virtually all able-bodied men and women subject to assignment to essential tasks.

Appearing as the first administration witness before a committee which includes many senators hostile to the idea of labor conscription, Stimson said national service would hasten victory, and asserted:

"Every month the war is prolonged will be measured in the lives of thousands of young men, in billions of dollars."

Monday Night Accident Proves Fatal; Rites Saturday.

A fractured skull suffered when her car crashed into a telephone pole near Key Town Camp on Route 23, south of Marion Monday night, caused the death of Mrs. Martha Margaret Hinamon, 30, of Delaware, at 10:45 a. m. today at the City hospital. She died without regaining consciousness.

Hollensen, pastor of Emanuel Lutheran church will officiate and burial will be made in the Marion cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after noon tomorrow.

Representative Calls For Action in Tax Revolt

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—Rep. Coffee (D-Wash) called today for immediate action by the department of justice against Miss Vivien Kellems, Westport, Conn., war industrialist who announced she had refused to pay her Dec. 15 income tax and urged other business people to follow her example.

Miss Kellems, speaking before a luncheon meeting in Kansas City yesterday, called upon "all business, both big and small," to follow my example and put aside postwar reserves out of their taxes."

She asserted that present tax rates violate the Constitution and amount to "unreasonable seizure."

LAUER INDORSED

The Marion County Democratic Executive committee Monday night indorsed James F. Lauer of Prospect for reappointment on the Marion county board of elections for a four-year term starting March 1. He now is a member of the board and has served as its chairman. The indorsement was sent to the secretary of state, the appointing official.

SOVIET DRIVE AT LENINGRAD GAINS GROUND

Germans Admit Offensive in North Is Making Steady Progress.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Jan. 19—Red army forces on the Leningrad and Volkhov fronts in northern Russia sprang forward today in a new offensive calculated to end the German siege of Leningrad, second city of the Soviet Union.

Two neighboring army groups launched simultaneous assaults several days ago to break through strong German defense lines and are now developing their drives on a large scale.

No specific objectives have been announced as captured as yet, but in that thickly-populated and heavily fortified area a few yards or miles of ground rank as important as some cities and towns in other more open sectors.

The fact that the launching of the offensive could be announced was taken here to mean that it is proceeding successfully.

Russian troops on the Leningrad front began their push 20 miles west of Peterhof, known as the Versailles of Russia and the former home of the Czars.

Strike Farther North

At the same time Red army forces of the Volkhov front attacked north of Novgorod, 100 miles southeast of Leningrad between Lake Ilmen and the Baltic.

The twin operations appeared to have been planned jointly to break the German semi-circle around Leningrad, under constant threat of enemy bombardment.

The blockade of Leningrad was broken a year ago by a Red army, which opened a narrow corridor to the east. The Germans, however, dug in close to the western and southern sides of the city, constructing an elaborate system of fortifications.

The double offensive added to the difficulties of the Germans in north Russia, already sorely harassed by another Soviet drive toward the rear of their positions south of Leningrad.

Berlin Admits Reverses

(Berlin broadcasts acknowledged reverses on both fronts and said the Russians were continuing their attacks with waves of tanks and strong infantry forces.)

A Russian war bulletin said Red troops in the latter drive captured 40 more towns yesterday in their slow but steady advance, including the railway station of Shubino. Strong enemy counter-attacks were thrown back with heavy losses, the Soviet communique said.

Front dispatches reported continued gains in the western Ukraine.

First Marion Factory Tops War Loan Quota

Fairfield Engineering Co. Sets Pace with Bond Purchases Over One-Third of Month's Payroll.

The Fairfield Engineering Co. held the Marion county spotlight in the Fourth War Loan drive today by virtue of a report that its employes have already topped their quota.

The quota was one-third of a month's payroll for the employes, and as of last night the organization's total of purchases by individuals was $1,500 over that figure.

Harold J. Grigsby, in charge of the industrial phase of the drive, said this morning that as the first company reported over the top, but he said reports show most factory campaigns are already well along.

The Fairfield campaign was handled by a general committee headed by Clarence O. Brown and including J. B. Bray and U. A. Nystrom, working with Paul Lauterbach, Lowell Miller, Home, Hufford, Robert Shackelford, Robert Gamble and Lloyd Rases in charge of the shop campaign and James Creager and John C. Scheifler in charge of the drive among office workers. Kenneth Fields of the War Finance committee's treasury representative for the Fairfield.

Canvassers Busy

Meanwhile, workers were busy with other phases of the drive—the block chairmen and their assistants canvassing the business district, the air raid wardens working the residential areas on a house-to-house canvass, and rural community and township organizations covering their territories.

Leaders again emphasized today the individual quotas for Marion county residents—one-third of a month's income if you are an industrial, business or professional worker and $1 an acre for each farm owner or operator. The Marion county goal is $2,638,000, due by Feb. 15.

Day's Sales Low

Yesterday's sales were the lowest of the drive to date, amounting to $13,137.50 and bringing the total sales to date up to $157,217.50. Yesterday's total was shared by 376 buyers and $12,037.50 was in E bonds, $2,500 in treasury 2½s and $1,000 in Series G bonds.

Richland township reported today that its first sales were made to the Yake brothers, Wayne, 7, and Howard, 5, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Yake. The boys parted company with pet lambs they had reared, sacrificing them to get enough money to round out the purchase of a bond for each boy.

NEW ANGLES IN LETTER CASE

2 Typewriters Assume Mysterious Role in Hopkins Forgery Probe.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—Two typewriters assumed a mysterious role in the "Hopkins letter thriller" today as a federal grand jury resumed its exploration of the latest Washington political drama to involve men in high places.

The typewriters were taken from the office of George N. Briggs, confidential assistant to Interior Secretary Ickes, but federal agents declined to say whether they were being examined in connection with the case.

Briggs, 55-year-old former newspaper man who has been pictured on the senate floor as a go-between in publication of the disputed "Hopkins letter," meanwhile was suspended by Ickes without pay pending the outcome of the investigation.

The grand jury, reassembling after a respite of several days, is seeking to determine whether Harry L. Hopkins was correct in asserting that his name was forged to a typewritten letter predicting Wendell L. Willkie's renomination for the presidency.

Senator Langer (R-N.D.) cited the letter in support of his resolution calling for a congressional investigation of Willkie's 1940 nomination. Langer also read to the senate a series of typed letters which he said were written by Briggs to C. Nelson Sparks, former Akron, O., mayor, who published a book critical of Willkie last fall.

Ickes To Appear

Ickes also announced he had asked permission to appear before the grand jury, now sitting in Washington. Ickes said he knew nothing about the "Hopkins letter," and doubted if he could shed much light on it, but stated:

"I do not relish the bandying about of my name in connection with a matter which seems to be as bizarre and absurd as it appears to be contemptible and vicious."

The names of Briggs and Ickes were brought into the affair Monday by Senator Langer who read to the senate a series of letters he said had been written by Briggs to C. Nelson Sparks, author of the

RECEPTION ON TOUR PLEASES GOV. BRICKER

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 19—Gov. Bricker declared today "good some delegates" to the Republican national convention during a speaking tour through the west coast in behalf of his candidacy for the party presidential nomination, but secretary Robert L. Burton said today:

Bricker and his party arrived here unexpectedly by air this afternoon from Tulsa, Okla., today. The governor did not come to his office but went to the mansion to rest before leaving tonight for Buffalo, N. Y., where he speaks to the Town Club Thursday night. He previously had planned to go to Buffalo at noon returning to Columbus.

"The governor made a very favorable impression on Republican leaders and the people of the southwest," Burton commented. "He was very well pleased with the reception accorded him and he won some delegates."

The governor left here last Wednesday for speaking engagements in Texas and Missouri. He also met with Kansas Republican leaders.

Following his Buffalo talk, Bricker goes to Pittsburgh, Jan. 27, to address a McKinley day dinner.

Those returning with the governor were Burton, John W. Galbreath, his campaign director; Roy D. Moore, campaign manager and Frank E. Auren, press representative.

QUAKE HITS CITY AGAIN

Rails Back in Private Hands

Sen. Wheeler Warns of Manpower Problem as U. S. Operation of Roads Ends.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—The nation's rail transportation system was back in the hands of private operators today but Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) warned it still faces a critical manpower problem.

President Roosevelt announced settlement of the wage dispute, with raises all around, late yesterday, and War Secretary Stimson thereupon ordered the seized railroads returned to their owners effective at midnight.

The roads, once threatened by labor disputes of the 350,000 members of five operating unions and of 1,100,000 non-operating workers, were taken over by the government on Dec. 27, three days before a strike-call deadline.

Increases Provided

The settlement and some earlier agreements which labor and management sources estimated would cost the roads approximately $240,000,000 annually, plus retroactive pay awards, provide generally for increases of nine cents an hour to the operating workers and increases of from nine to 11 cents for the non-ops.

The 15 non-op unions originally had asked for 20 cents an hour more and the operating brotherhoods a 30 per cent hike, or $3 a day, whichever might be greater.

In his announcement, Secretary Stimson said the agreements "provide assurance there will be no stoppage of rail service."

Senator Wheeler, however, who is chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee, said the military draft and the lure of higher wages in war industry are thinning personnel ranks to dangerous levels.

"If something isn't done to relieve this situation," the Montanan said, "we are in for serious trouble.

"Railroad men are being drafted every day and there are thou-

BRITISH FORCE RIVER CROSSING AT 3 POINTS

Heavy Fighting Continues as Allied Troops Establish Bridgeheads.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Jan. 19—British troops of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth army have crossed the lower Garigliano river at three points converging on the ancient Appian way, forcing across the main coastal route to Rome.

The attack was launched Monday evening, allied headquarters announced today, and all three bridgeheads were secured despite violent enemy resistance which included a run of fire on the river itself, 80 miles southeast of Rome.

Headquarters said heavy fighting still is in progress at the site of the first crossing near Sujo, a village seven miles inland from the Tyrrhenian coast.

Set Up New Bridgehead

The second bridgehead was established along the railroad running from Capua to Rome, four miles from the coast.

The third was at Argento, almost on the coast itself, where the Germans countered with a tank attack in a desperate but futile effort to drive the British back across the river.

An American coastal force attacked lighters off Sperla, without damage to themselves, while British units torpedoed a small ship in Samartin harbor off Ponza island.

In the air, heavy bombers blasted key communications targets in Tuscany province yesterday.

American Mitchells and Spitfires scored 15 bombhits on a 3,000-ton merchant vessel off Leghorn, leaving it sinking.

Lighter aircraft kept pounding the Nazis in the battle area, and also carried out numerous attacks against communications in northern Italy and damaged shipping off the Dalmatian coast.

Seven enemy planes were destroyed for ... loss of three allied ships.

Hit Gustav Line

Preparations for the crossing apparently were made by British raiders who jumped the estuary of the Garigliano less than three blows behind the enemy's lines in weeks before and delivered heavy the Minturno area.

The new offensive on the coastal lowlands came while American and French troops probed vigorously at the so-called Gustav line around Cassino, 20 miles inland from the mouth of the Garigliano.

American patrols already had crossed the Rapido river in the Cassino area, but ... are forced to return with reports that the Germans apparently were concentrating their defenses for one of the most furious battles since the fall of ... French forces operating in the mountains on the right flank of the Americans increased their bag of prisoners to 600 in ... days.

PEACE REPORT ROW SUBSIDES

Russians Broadcast British Official Denial of Meeting with Germans.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 19 — British newspapers, which yesterday expressed high indignation over Pravda's publication of a rumor of British-German peace talks, appeared placated today by the Moscow radio's broadcast of the official British denial.

At the same time, Moscow dispatches said Britons and Americans in the Soviet capital also expressed relief at the broadcast, which went to the whole nation and was transmitted to the Russian press.

The London Daily Mail, which yesterday called the Communist party organ's account "An insult to the British people," headlined its story today: "'Peace' He is now dead." The News Chronicle said the Germans were spreading peace talk rumors, "hoping to gain respite."

In broadcasting Britain's denial, the Moscow radio LSO gave the first inkling of a possible explanation for the Pravda story by quoting a London Sunday Times dispatch of Jan. 16 from Ankara which said the Nazis were fishing for terms.

Nazis Harp on Incident

German propaganda broadcasts, meanwhile, harped on the theme that the Pravda story was intended by Moscow to draw a renewed British and American pledge of allegiance toward Russia "regardless of how the Polish question is being solved by the Soviets."

German officials themselves denied that Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop had been in contact with the allies, according to a Nazi-controlled Scandinavian telegraph bureau dispatch quoted by Reuters.

Moscow's broadcast of the British official denial of Pravda's story was by Tass, official Soviet news agency, which, however, attributed it to Reuters. It said, "The Reuters agency reports that the British ministry of foreign affairs has denied the rumor reproduced in a Cairo telegram of the Pravda correspondent according to which an alleged meeting took place between two leading British politicians and Ribbentrop."

The broadcast of the denial was preceded by the quotation of the

Your Federal Income Tax

11—THE WITHHOLDING TAX

In 1943, for the first time, Federal income taxes of individuals were collected on a "pay-as-you-go" or current tax payment basis. In large part, this was effected through the withholding by employers of the taxes from wages of their employes.

These collections were required to be paid monthly to a depositary and financial agent authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury to receive deposits of withheld taxes or directly to the collector of internal revenue. When the employers file their annual victory tax return for 1943, on or before March 15, 1944, they may treat these withholdings as payments on their income tax liabilities.

[illegible] to their employes [illegible] total [illegible] withheld [illegible] than the tax shown as due, the [illegible] shall not be refunded [illegible] credited to the taxpayer, but [illegible] of the tax due for the [illegible] shall be payable by the employer.

The method of collecting tax at the source applies to all employees except certain groups that are exempt by law, such as members of the armed forces in active service, domestic servants, agricultural labor, and [illegible] labor not in the course of the employer's business. No withholding is required where a United States citizen or resident renders services to a foreign government, nor where the major part of services for a private employer are rendered outside of the United States. Nonresident aliens who reside in Canada or Mexico and work in the United States are subject to withholding, but if their work requires them to enter and leave this country at frequent interval, as in the case of railroads, ferries, steamboats, and aircraft services, no withholding is required if the employe files an exemption certificate with his employer.

Fees paid by the public to public officials are exempt from withholding, as is the compensation received by ministers of the gospel for services which are ordinarily the duties of a minister. Ministers engaged in teaching or other occupations where the services required are not ordinarily the duties of a minister, or where the employes are not limited to ministers serving under the authority of a religious body constituting a church or church denomination, are subject to withholding.

Withholding does not apply to persons who are in business for themselves.

The amount which the employer is required to withhold depends on the family status of the employe, on the amount of his wages or salary, and on the amount of the personal exemption claimed by the employe for withholding purposes. The employe furnishes his employer with a statement showing his marital status, the number of his dependents, and the personal exemption claimed. If no "Withholding Exemption Certificate" is filed with the employer, he will be required to withhold on the gross wages, thus increasing the amount of the credit which the employe may report on his return as tax paid at the source.

Tables are provided in the law which may be used by the employer to determine the amount of tax to be withheld from wages, or he may make exact computations in each case. In general, the tax withheld is 20 per cent of the excess of each payment of wages over the family status withholding exemption, or 3 per cent of the excess over the victory tax withholding exemption, whichever tax is the greater. The use of the tables is optional with the employer, and he may use them for all employes or for any one or more employes where their use is more convenient for him than the exact computation method.

The withholding of income taxes applies to "remunerations for services performed" regardless of whether they are called salaries, wages, fees, bonuses, or commissions. Pensions or retirement pay are, in general, wages subject to withholding, unless they are taxable as annuities (as in the case of the Federal civil service retirement system and many retirement plans for teachers, policemen, and firemen who have made payments from their salaries into the retirement fund. Annuities thus purchased are not wages and are not subject to withholding. When wages are paid wholly or partly in items other than cash, as stocks, bonds, [illegible] food and lodging, [illegible] the market [illegible] are [illegible] of a business [illegible] of payment.

When payments to employes for [illegible] consideration for services and advance of subsidies [illegible] especially for traveling or [illegible] by the employer's business [illegible] not apply to advances or reimbursements if such employer clearly segregates from [illegible] the amount representing payment for services. Any reasonable segregation may be made as where the employer issues two checks indicating separately thereon the amount of wages and the amount of expenses, or issues a separate check for expenses. The employer may have this segregation on an itemized statement of expenses furnished to him by the employe, if the amounts shown are considered by the employer to be reasonable. If no segregation is known, withholding must be based on the gross amount of the payment in excess of the applicable family status withholding exemption.

The withholding tax represents no additional cost to the employe, and is not an additional tax. It is designed simply for the sake of convenience: it allows the individual the convenience of paying his income taxes in small installments every pay day instead of in large and burdensome quarterly amounts.

POST-WAR POLICE FORCE? The authoritative Army and Navy Journal state that it was suggested during the Teheran talks that post-war Germany be occupied by Russia, Great Britain and the U. S., each nation garrisoning one-third of the country. The garrisoning of Japan by Chinese forces, the Journal adds, was discussed at Cairo. President Roosevelt hinted as much in his Christmas eve radio address, when he said that "unquestioned military control of disturbers of the peace is as necessary among nations as it is among citizens of a community."

Cong. Smith Charges New Foreign Relief Proposal Would "Give the U. S. Away"

A charge that the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration (UNRRA) was a scheme to give the United States "away" was made in a speech to congress yesterday by Congressman F. C. Smith of Marion, according to a news report from Washington.

He called the UNRRA a "grandiose, global scheme to scatter our substance to the four corners of the world," and declared once started it would generate its own forces for expansion and self-perpetuation.

The text of his remarks follows:

"The congress is about to consider the resolution reported out by the house committee on foreign affairs which proposes to legally establish the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

"This is a grandiose, global WPA scheme to scatter our substance to the four corners of the world, covering a land area in excess of 13,000,000 square miles or more than four times the size of the United States; to a population in excess of 850,000,000 or more than six times that of the United States.

"The limitation of $1,350,000,000 written into the resolution for the operation of the plan has no meaning, as every member of this body must surely know. Once the scheme were put in operation it would generate its own forces for self-perpetuation and expansion. If this program should cost more than ten times the amount estimated, nobody will be surprised.

"The money to operate the scheme must be provided by the government printing press which will add to the specter of inflation and further endanger the future value of every investment dollar, savings dollar, social security dollar, pension dollar and more especially every dollar invested in United States bonds.

"This is just another scheme to give the United States away and to bring about further disintegration of our economy and social order.

"But it is far more than that. This resolution actually provides for the surrender to an international body the power to legislate for the United States with or without the consent of any representative of the United States and the ignoring of congress entirely.

"There is no division of opinion on the question of our willingness to help the starving people in the war-stricken areas but whatever program of aid we may undertake let it be confined to the absolute necessities—food, clothing [illegible] that [illegible] as [illegible] that [illegible] Bill [illegible] of the [illegible] congress [illegible] and [illegible] Congress [illegible] of [illegible] and the surrender of United States [illegible] only to [illegible] that congress give more attention to our own interests and less to those of foreigners."

Dewey, Willkie Run Close in Nebraska and California

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 19—Surveys of Republican sentiment in Nebraska and California show Governor Thomas E. Dewey holding a slight lead today over Wendell Willkie in popularity as a 1944 presidential candidate.

The political tides in Nebraska are important because it is one of the states which has open presidential primaries. The situation in California holds equal interest for political leaders because of talk of Governor Earl Warren as a possible vice president candidate. The California governor has announced his intention of entering his state's primaries as a presidential nominee.

In gathering the views of Republican voters in California and Nebraska, each voter was handed a list of candidates who have been most widely talked about for the presidency this year, and asked to name his present choice.

Based on those who named a Republican, the results for Nebraska are given below. The figures are not an poll of Republican leaders, but of the rank and file of the whole party. The survey procedure used gives proper representation to all shades of opinion within the Republican party—the independent Republicans as well as the more rock-ribbed Republicans.

Russia Remembers, Too

IT IS ridiculous to hear Russian diplomacy discussed as a possible threat to amicable international relations, without acknowledgment of parallel threats in the diplomacy of other governments.

There is no choice between the threat of a Russian policy of uninhibited power politics, which is an eventuality greatly to be feared, and the pre-war practice of power politics which reached a climax at Munich, where Russia was not even represented. Neither is a proper pattern of international diplomacy for the years immediately ahead. The Russian government hardly can be expected to take for granted the good faith of its allies in dealing with Poland, for instance, until convinced by something more tangible than high intentions that they are genuinely interested in Russia's post-war security as well as their own. The consequences of the handling of the de Gaulle issue in North Africa, wherein Russian influence was indirectly at stake, may be coming to light sooner than expected.

There is a bright prospect for an era of international good feeling, if the diplomatic problems arising from the war are handled well. Premature conclusions and prejudices must be guarded against. No government approaches the task with clean hands, but if their constituent populations are lucky—and alert—all governments may feel obligated to tackle it with a minimum of the bad faith that has cursed international relations so heavily throughout the last generation.

Ruling on Possibilities

ATTY. GEN. BIDDLE'S convenient ruling that Secretary of Interior Ickes may retain control of coal mines which, if turned back to their owners, might have more labor trouble, has more possibilities in it than a Victory Garden seed collection.

Offhand, under the policies favored by John L. Lewis as president of United Mine Workers, it is hard to imagine when the possibility of labor trouble ever disappears entirely from the coal mines. While the union's record for sticking by its contracts is good, Mr. Lewis was among the first to make the great modern discovery in labor relations under supervision of the Roosevelt administration—that labor leaders are playing a no-limit game in which they cannot lose. For obvious reasons, they would like to have the government keep dealing the cards forever.

If they had any doubt of it before, Mr. Biddle's ruling should reassure them. Long after the wage issue in the coal industry supposedly is settled and after the government's operation supposedly is terminated by the limitations written into the Smith-Connally act, it must hold on to most of the mines because Mr. Lewis may keep right on playing to win. If Mr. Lewis is smart, which he is, he and Mr. Ickes won't be separated for a long time.

The Hostage Principle

THE proposal for a national service law as a means of averting strikes—the excuse used by President Roosevelt—boils down to this: That every civilian male from 18 to 65 and every female from 16 to 50 would become a hostage for the good behavior of a tiny minority of the population which the government wants to discipline.

The hostage principle has been used widely by the authoritarian governments, though with dubious results. The Germans have held villages responsible for the offenses of a few inhabitants. They destroyed Lidice because it was charged with harboring some of the heroes who murdered Reinhardt Heydrich. In Poland, many cases of executions in reprisal for acts against the government set up by the invaders have been reported—executions of innocent persons in an attempt to establish discipline by terror.

Of course, nothing so brutal even has been thought about here, but the principle is disturbingly familiar.

No Letup

WAR production board has made what looks like one of its major policy decisions by blocking large-scale resumption of civilian goods production, regardless of availability of material. The decision grew out of the question of what to do about steel, no longer in the shortage class.

However, reasons WPB, if civilian goods production were permitted because steel is available, there would be an accompanying demand for coal, petroleum, packaging paper and transportation—all in the acute shortage class. This is sound enough for immediate purposes of conserving the other materials affected, but it remains now to be seen what bearing such a decision may have on the ultimate problem of when to resume civilian goods production.

There will come a time when these goods will have to be produced not as a matter of privilege, but necessity. Apparently, WPB believes that time is not here yet.

So They Say—

We have reached the peak of war production, so it does not seem likely that the national income will go any higher.—Consequently taxes cannot.—Rep. Harold Knutson of Minnesota.

News Behind the News

Civilian Draft Bill Not Given Serious Attention Although Country Approves.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 — A week after Mr. Roosevelt's demand for a national draft bill, his Floor Leader Barkley had not emitted a word of approval. His leaders on the house side went further and assured not even off the record, the bill would not be passed.

Indeed, the prevailing congressional suspicion seems to be that the President possibly had entered upon promotion of the bill (in his message, at least) to remove the curse from his record on the strike situation — in any event, the bill will not be even seriously considered unless some manpower or strike emergency arises, which the leader obviously do not expect.

The printed reaction out in the country was somewhat amazing. Indorsements came from conservative commentators largely but also from the Bridges Communist-controlled long horsemen's union on the Pacific Coast. When you get Communists and conservatives together you may be sure someone is being fooled.

Man In Street Approves

The reaction of the man in the street, as I get it conversationally, was likewise surprisingly approving. People generally hate strikes and sympathize with the unequal positions of the soldier with the war worker. They are tirelessly right in these positions.

But, in their righteous wrath, they are apt to be misled into espousing a remedy far more unjust than the injustices they want to cure. Few of them have studied the bill (Austin revised proposal, Jan. 10) and understand what it would do to them and the country. Congress knows.

To me, it seems as unjustified as using an axe to eliminate a fly-speck on glass, and in this case, the glass is the final container of individual human rights, individual liberty—all that we are fighting for and including our "way of life"—in favor of male and female enslavement to the state for war reasons that are not apparent to all—including congress.

"National Martial Law"

Theoretically, it would practically declare national martial law on all the people to make a few work—and this in a nation whose production (work) is already so good that Mr. Roosevelt justly brags it is the best in the world.

You can see this clearly by a detailed study of the bill—empowering the President by proclamation to move anyone anywhere away from his home into any other job at any rate of pay (that is, anyone except federal, state, county, and local officials, including commercial, who are exempt along with pregnant mothers and those with minor children, and the other established military exemptions, although I do not see clergymen exempt).

One phrase promises exemption to those "necessary to the maintenance of national health, safety and interest" and another warns the boards against being "unfair, arbitrary or causing personal hardships." But obviously the door is left wide open for local boards to differ in their interpretations (as they already have) and to enter new fields of politics, graft and corruption.

Weak Appeal Setup

Appeals could be taken to the national draft director and to the courts, but only after the deed is done, and we all know what crowded places those are now for timely justice. (Incidentally, no provision is made for the drafted civilian to vote away from home, a rather pertinent matter this year.)

The urge for this thing is the injustice of drafting the soldier. Not even there do the proponents propose justice in lieu thereof. A drafted soldier has his whole life provided by the federal government and all are treated alike as to pay and special privileges, including insurance, allowance for dependents, medical care etc.

Nothing comparable is promised the civilian draftee. He can be uprooted from his home, sent across the country to work in a field at half the salary or less—and all the government would give him is transportation and a polite invitation to the draft boards to consider housing conditions in the area to which he is sent. It would only equalize present injustices by creating more.

Absorbing Individual

In short, its theory is to absorb the human being completely into state totalitarianism. Mr. Roosevelt's pen slipped badly when he wrote congress:

"National service is the most democratic way to win war."

It proposes final abandonment of civilian democratic independence. Its theory is that of both Fascism and Communism, but bears no slight resemblance to that of democracy which espouses voluntary contributions of effort and individual freedom of patriotic conscience.

It would leave the deepest scar of this war on democracy.

Lenin Still Soviet Leader

By Henry Cassidy.

This article by an Associated Press correspondent in Moscow answers the question of what the war may have done to communism in Russia. Lenin, the writer says, is still the symbolic leader of the Soviet Union.

* * *

DESPITE the rapid evolution and far-reaching changes of the Soviet Union, Lenin, first leader of this state, stands unchallenged as the figurehead of the nation.

He is still honored as the founder of the Soviet Union. Premier Stalin still prides himself in the title of "continuator" of Lenin's work. The principles of the Soviet Union are still described officially as "Leninism—Stalinism."

The 20th anniversary of Lenin's death will be observed as a memorial day on Jan. 21, with meetings, lectures and articles devoted to his career. Wartime emphasis is being given to Lenin's creation of the Red army and his attention to the problems of national defense.

An advance indication of the tone of the observance was given by an article in the illustrated 1941 Soviet calendar, issued by the state publishing house, describing the significance of the day.

It recounts Lenin's death at Gorki, Jan. 21, 1924, after a long illness and recalls the government's announcement of the death: "Lenin is no longer with us, but his cause remains unshaken."

"These words," says the article, "expressed the thoughts and feelings of the entire Soviet people."

The article recalls that 250,000 new members were admitted to the Communist party immediately after Lenin's death. Recently, there has been another wartime increase in the ranks of the party, bringing the total membership to more than 4,600,000.

AT the second Soviet congress Jan. 26, 1924, "Stalin on behalf of the entire people took the solemn vow to safeguard and strengthen the cause of Lenin and fulfill all his behests," the article continues.

"This vow was the later program of the Soviet government's activities in the field of national defense and in economic and cultural development. One of the most important of Lenin's behests was that the Red army should excell in every respect. Under Stalin's leadership, this was done, and the Soviet people built up the mighty Red army which today is performing miracles of heroism in the fight against the German Fascist invaders."

Lenin was buried in a red and black marble mausoleum in Red Square. More than a million persons followed the coffin to the grave in a funeral procession. The tomb became a mecca for millions of visitors. It has been closed since the battle of Moscow, but is expected to be reopened soon.

The article concludes: "Lenin died, but his immortal cause is in the hands of Stalin, great helmsman who is steering the Soviet ship of state to its goal just as firmly and unswervingly as did Lenin."

IN the two decades since Lenin's death, many new things have come to the Soviet Union, and some old things have been restored. The Commintern has disappeared, and Russia is cooperating with the United Nations in the prosecution of the war and in planning the peace. The anti-religion drive has ceased publication and the Holy Synod has been restored.

But socialized industry and collectivized agriculture remain as the basis of the state, the system described as Sovietism.

Whatever it is called, to the Russians it remains Leninism.

NEW YORK—When a serviceman or woman puts to sea now he may help chase away the boredom of long ocean hauls and the inevitable waits at depots and docks.

The National Recreation Association put out this pocket size edition — featuring 57 ways to keep amused—at the request of Army and Navy officials.

"Fun En Route" is 34 pages of brain teasers, tricks and stunts, none of which involves more than coins, pencils, matches, cards or toothpicks.

Army authorities say it is especially useful on crowded transports, but those in the service traveling by train, plane or submarine also will get them.

Bedrock Bedroom

AT A SOUTHEAST COAST PORT, ENGLAND—This once popular seaside resort solved the air raid shelter problem by simply digging a big tunnel beneath the entire city.

The blitz is history, but the city still occasionally is the target for comparatively mild bomber attacks and shelling. Raid or no raid, however, some 2,000 persons still sleep each night in double-decker bunks which line the sides of the winding, twisting subterranean passageway.

They've known no other bedroom for four years.

The tunnel was hacked out of solid white chalk rock. Some 75 to 100 feet deep, it extends several miles and links up with an old, unused railroad tunnel one and a half miles long.

Strange Things Happened

By Howard Flieger

Washington Correspondent.

THE whisky shortage has made liquor buyers of people who normally wouldn't give two bits for all the bourbon in Kentucky.

This hoarding by non-drinkers is one reason why the man who really wants a drink often can't find a drop.

The situation came out as a by-product disclosure of a senate committee's investigation into the national liquor supply. One witness, a liquor administrator in an eastern state, said the stimulated buying of whisky by those who never touch the stuff is an established factor in the growing demand for a scarce product.

Paradoxical it certainly is, but committee members can offer an explantaion—in fact, several:

Hoarders, they say, will be hoarders. It seems to be psychological. When something starts disappearing from counters, hoarders start laying it in. So when whisky started getting scarce, hoarders started buying. It isn't that they want the whisky so much. They just don't want to get caught without it.

That takes care of the out-and-out hoarder. But there are synthetic hoarders, among non-drinkers, some committee members think, who jumped into the retail liquor market because they saw a chance to turn a good thing for themselves. The profit motive probably sent some abstainers off to the liquor store to lay in a pre-shortage supply.

They're the potential hip pocket bootleggers of 1944. When whisky supplies become short enough their liquor probably will go on sale on a "Joe sent me" basis at prices that will make the OPA bottled goods ceilings look like well worn carpets.

Another non-drinking liquor buyer is the closed friend-in-need of the citizen who likes to take a couple before dinner. He buys a bottle for his neighbor. He is most prevalent in liquor monopoly states where the state government runs the retail whisky business. In most such states the dwindling liquor supply is rationed and a bottle is the ration for each adult. The drinker can manage to get two, however, by buying the second through a non-drinking friend.

Warehouse stocks of stored liquor continue to bother senate investigators, who see in storage stocks a means of ending the whisky shortage and getting some quick cash into the federal treasury.

You can expect an attempt to be made in the new session of congress to put a federal tax on all whisky more than four years old. The tax exemption now goes for eight years. Officials estimate there are 117,000,000 gallons of seasoned whisky still too young to pay taxes which would come out of warehouses if the tax ceiling were lowered.

The senate finance committee killed the proposal once but it will be renewed when the tax bill comes up for debate.

Vindication

One of those minor incidents with major implications occurred when the United States justice department indicted 30 men and women accused of plotting to overthrow the United States government and supplant it with something more to their taste, in the Hitler tradition.

Behind the indictments was the work of army and navy intelligence departments and the FBI. But behind all of them, in many cases, were tips turned up by investigators for the Dies committee of the house of representatives.

This committee, which has been pointing an accusing finger in all directions for many years, usually against the wishes of the justice department or some other government agency, particularly when it claimed it had evidence of Communist influence on government payrolls, never expected to hear any part of the government least of all the justice department, admit that it had done anything useful.

Sweet Memories

Lovely Old Saratoga Upstate from New York City Will Lose Out to Better Situated Track.

By DAMON RUNYON

I HAVE always suspected that a great group conjured up the title "The Association for the Improvement of the Breed of Horses" in connection with Saratoga racing.

It may have been R. T. Wilson, dead many years, who was long head of the race operation at what we call "The Spa," though I must say I never gave him credit for much more originality than enormous loyalty to the hard straw skimmer, technically known as a "sailor hat."

During the month of August when the race meet is afoot in Saratoga, Mr. Wilson always appeared in this type of hat with a band of the college colors. I seem to have an idea that it was always the same hat, cleaned and recleaned across the years. I know there would be years when the hard straw was not the style and consequently Mr. Wilson's hat would look old-timey. Then it would become the vogue, and he would be the very mould of fashion.

But in or out, he was as faithful to that kind of hat as his successor, George Bull, later became to the drooping panama. George Bull died not long ago, which I deeply regret, not only because he was a nice chap but because he somehow became more closely identified in my mind with Saratoga than any other individual.

HE WAS a pudgy, bustling, bubbling man, extremely courteous, who had a house with a big veranda in Saratoga and always there was a sound of clinking glasses and gay chit-chat in this house of an evening and figures in dinner clothes passing the windows, and sometimes music was heard, so I rather felt that Mr. Bull's domicile reflected life as it should be at "The Spa" during racing season in August.

Saratoga's August dates were transferred to Belmont Park in New York City last year because the war has cut down transportation facilities up-state, and the meeting made a lot of money. Since horse racing nowadays is strictly a gambling proposition and the Saratoga meetings never showed the vast profits of the tracks of the metropolitan area, the game may not return to the famous resort even after the war, despite protestations to the contrary.

There are sure to be other tracks up-state because New York racing has become too fat a pigeon for the politicians to overlook and Saratoga might not be able to stand the competition. It would be a pity because "The Spa" is the last stand of sentiment and real romance in connection with New York racing. The tender memories of the famous stakes were completely obliterated when the stakes were transferred to New York. They then became just horse races.

BUT I reckon old sports writers are the only ones who can muster tears over old days. The track operators prefer dividends to memories, and the customers fancy gambling convenience over sentiment. I fear Saratoga may be left to drowse through the years to come on its recollection of the good old days. Well, it was a lot of fun.

The state of New York is now the largest beneficiary of a gambling enterprise of any state in history, though California would have had a nice slice had racing been permitted in the southern end of the state. In the 15 states of the union in which gambling on the races was conducted in 1943, the sum of nearly $800,000,000 was wagered as against $563,579,895 for the previous year, and the various states collected upwards of $33,000,000.

The reductions in other taxes in these states as a result of this take was practically zero. If you repair to a back alley in any one of them to shoot craps for pennies, or undertake any other gambling games, you will land in jail. On the basis of an $800,000,000 handle in 15 states on the racing racket, you can just imagine what my national lottery would do in all 48 states.

The Grind

By Truman Twill

Herewith another page from a civilian's diary in wartime:

Monday: More of the same today, except the boss had a touch of flu and got in the way more than usual. Not enough coffee in the house for breakfast, so none for thermos. Food all gone but two crusts and too early to go to store. But it turned out ok because Lester was feeling good and shared his lunch, including piece of apple pie. Received letter from Bob. They moved to Seattle just a year ago and wish they were back home. So do I.

Tuesday: Counted up War Bonds after adding new one to pile and found enough to pay off more than a year's rent, when they come due. Walked to drug store after supper and bought a cigar, telling family the old man was a capitalist and deserved more consideration. Nice day today after yesterday's fizzle. Took Lester a piece of cake in return for pie. Boss looks worse.

Wednesday: Boss stayed home today. Two things went fine. Maybe that's sign of good management when things go fine but even then inclined to think something wrong when boss can make things run better by staying away. Answered letter from Browns and wrote Ed. Talked to his wife on the bus coming home. She says he would like to hear more from Ed and isn't finding army life so hot at that. He doesn't think much of Texas, either.

Thursday: Boss still sick but everything. Looks like the gang wants to prove everything goes fine when he's not there, which probably means he will be back tomorrow if they have to carry him in. At that the guy has a raise coming to him. Nobody can remember when he laid off, and he's been hanging around for 14 hours a day. Big time at lunch today. Jane brought his birthday cake—said she wouldn't be home from work in time for supper and he figured he'd throw his own party.

Friday: Saw suit in window while waiting for bus and decided to buy it next time I get paid off. Haven't had a new suit for more than a year, but haven't missed it because haven't been anywhere, except to work and to bed. Got the seed catalogue and wasted the whole evening arguing about whether it would be worth while to spade up part of the lawn to plant a victory garden this year. That stuff we put in the ground last year's garden is tasting awful good, especially the beans.

Saturday: Another week gone. Sorry to see it end because now I swing to evening shift and everything will be haywire for the next few days. Boss has been back two days and got a kick out of it when he came around. Said I'd been doing nice work. Said it made him feel good to know he had a gang of dependable men like me. Maybe I can get a raise. War news looks good, but we haven't had a letter from the kid in 10 days. Still, no news is better news than bad news. The kid can take care of himself. May go to church tomorrow if it isn't too hard to get up. Haven't been for a long time.

PEACE

London Sunday Times dispatch from Ankara reporting peace proposals, believed to have come from Hitler, were made two months ago to Turkey, "who refused to relay them to the allies," and that similar proposals were made in Lisbon and Stockholm. The dispatch said the proposals were based on the nope of creating disunion between Britain, the United States and Russia.

The News Chronicle said in a Stockholm-dated dispatch today a "German peace move—on conditions—is on the way." The dispatch said the nature of the alleged terms was not known and added, "that they will be rejected goes without saying."

Russian People Given News of British Denials

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Jan. 19—The Russian press gave the people the news today of the British foreign office's denial of a peace proposal meeting as reported by Pravda's Cairo correspondent Monday, but made no editorial comment.

At the same time the press hinted a story from London quoting the London Sunday Times, which said under an Ankara dateline while it was true that Franz Von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey had not made peace proposals it was untrue that peace proposals had not recently been made by the Germans. The Sunday Times (not to be confused with the Times of London) said peace proposals were in fact made two months ago to Turkey, which refused to relay them to the allies. It said similar proposals were made in Lisbon and Stockholm.

(Quotation of the London paper's story may be Moscow's way of saying that stories of peace-talk rumors were printed in England as well as in Soviet Russia).

Muscovites' first reaction on the reprinting of the story from the Sunday Times' Ankara correspondent was "you see, something is up."

Many Russians who may have to some extent discounted the original story now are convinced that the British have been listening—if nothing else—to peace proposals from Germany.

"What troubles me most," said one Russian, "is that part as reported by the Sunday Times correspondent where he said the Germans would reserve the right of limited freedom of action in the east. That means us."

The Russians have a saying similar to ours—there is no smoke where there is no fire. This is being pointed out today.

Another term of the reported proposal by the Hitlerite government—still quoting the London Sunday Times' Ankara correspondent—was that dealing with Germany's willingness to scrap her fleet and submarines immediately.

"Destroying her subs," said another Russian friend of mine, "would ofcourse bring lots of satisfaction to the United States."

So far the United States is not being brought into the discussion among subway and streetcar crowds but publication of the Sunday Times piece will prooably introduce that subject.

The story said the peace proposals were believed to have come from Hitler himself and were based on the possibility of disunion among Britain, the United States and Russia.

Two Sandusky Men Admit Federal Charge

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 19 — Two Sandusky men—William H Hommel and Leo A. Seckstedter—proprietor and employe, respectively, of the Hommel Wine company, pleaded guilty before Judge Frank L. Kloeb in U. S. district court yesterday to charges of violating federal tax laws.

They were accused of conspiracy to defraud the government by failing to pay federal alcohol taxes and of violating alcohol regulations by failing to affix wine stamps on shipments.

U. S. District Attorney Gerald P. Openlander said sentence would be imposed next week.

U. S. WATCHES OHIO LIQUOR BLACK MARKET

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 19 — The federal treasury department plans to halt black market liquor operations in Ohio where more than 90 per cent of the whisky purchases through the state liquor control board's consent system come into channels, says the district supervisor of the internal revenue bureau's alcohol tax unit.

E. F. Koehler, whose Detroit office covers Ohio and Michigan in an interview here last night declared "under Ohio law the liquor board is the only wholesaler qualified to conduct a wholesale business within the state providing the only source of supply for retailers whether they operate within their quotas set by the board or supplement their quotas by consent importation through the board from outside the state."

The supervisor reported numerous violations of federal regulations occurred through the consent system and that "over 90 per cent of such consent shipments investigated by the alcohol tax unit have definite 'black market' ramifications.

"The majority of these shipments," he added, "are composed of 'off' or recently created brands, the product of the unscrupulous element of the industry."

Koehler said violators would be brought before federal grand juries. He explained that under a new treasury department ruling distillers were required to make only instead of the previous monthly report to facilitate checking for possible federal infractions.

He proposed that the board withhold consent approvals from out-of-state wholesale dealers involved in black market deals and that reputable distillers and producers of standard brands take necessary precautions against sale to dealers involved in illicit operations.

While both the more liberal proposals apparently had strong bipartisan backing, indications were the committee measure would win approval before the end of the day and be sent to the senate which last month passed a bill with a $500 top.

By The Associated Press

WINNETKA, Ill., Jan. 19—Residents of this fashionable Chicago suburb auctioned off their services ranging from dish washing to portraiture last night to neighbors who paid for them in war bonds totaling $1,144,000.

The "odd-jobs" auction opening the village's fourth war loan drive shot the night's total over the million mark when 32 persons pooled bids aggregating $239,000 for the services of Mrs. Anita W. Burnham who offered to paint any picture of their choice or give a lecture.

Hughston M. McBain, Chicago department store president, whose talent as a snow shoveler went for $20,000, bought $150,000 in bonds to have his wood chopped by the Holman D. Pettibones, father and son. Pettibone Sr., is president of the Chicago Title & Trust and the Chicago Association of Commerce.

FERGUSON TO RUN FOR AUDITOR AGAIN

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 19—State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson announced today he would ask reelection instead of the governorship.

He said last week he would seek the honor of being Ohio's Democratic "favorite son" for the presidential nomination which he can do under Ohio law while being a candidate for auditor.

In a formal statement today Ferguson said thousands of Democrats had asked him to be a gubernatorial candidate again and that thousands of Democrats and "good Republicans" had importuned him to seek reelection as auditor.

The auditor said that though he would deem it a great honor to be a candidate for and be elected he considered it his duty to "forego any personal ambition I might have to be governor of Ohio and instead answer the call of farmers, local public officials, labor and business men who have urged me to serve them again as their auditor of state."

ONE STROKE DOES IT. After long planning and preparation, Adrian Grasselly splits the famed "Liberator" diamond while experts and newsmen watch in a closely guarded New York workroom. Valued at $200,000, the 155-carat stone, largest ever found in Venezuela, was named to honor Simon Bolivar, South American hero and revolutionist.

SAYS HE ACTED TO PROTECT WOMEN

By The Associated Press

LORAIN, O., Jan. 19—One of five men facing charges of assault with intent to maim said today he sought to guard a Lorain housewife against a "masher" because civic-mindedness was necessary to protect the city's women while "Lorain's young men are in service."

William J. Esser, 47-year-old post office foreman, accused with four companions of beating Cecil B. Dalton, 33, of nearby Sheffield Lake in a plan to punish an alleged molester of Mrs. Russell King, 38, said "we did not go to police because we wanted to spare Mrs. King unwelcome publicity."

The four others are police officer Frank Eiden, discharged from the force, and letter carriers George J. Reubel, 46, Joseph S. Hazzard, 39, and James Donatucci, 22. The postal employes were suspended from service.

Esser, told a reporter "civic-minded citizens should do what they can to make the streets safe for women while 5,000 of Lorain's gallant young men are away from home in the service of their country."

Police Inspector John A. Meister said Mrs. King signed a statement asserting after she received numerous anonymous phone calls a plan was devised with Esser to trap the caller.

City Prosecutor John D. Pincura said Dalton told him he was handcuffed and beaten with a blackjack, then threatened with a revolver. He added he was forced to sign a statement admitting he telephoned Mrs. King. "I signed it because they said they would kill me if I didn't," Dalton related.

Dalton signed affidavits for the arrest of the six defendants. He contended he did not know Mrs. King and that he believed it was a case of mistaken identity. All six, including Mrs. King, pleaded innocent to the assault charges and were released under $1,000 bond pending a hearing Jan. 25.

GROCERS, MEAT DEALERS HEAR OPA SPECIALISTS

Price Ceiling Compliance To Be Sought by Officials.

Price ceiling regulations and point value markings were explained to 75 grocers and meat dealers of the Marion area when they met last night at the local War Price and Rationing board rooms on East Center street. Dealers were told that markers bearing price, grade and ration value of meats should be placed on all meat in display counters. Grades are to be marked on beef, veal, lamb and mutton, but not on pork or poultry which has no grade.

G. F. Kelly, meat specialist for 34 counties including Marion county, and A. P. Leibbland price panel representative for OPA, both of the Columbus branch of OPA were present. The meeting was called by the state board at the request of Washington headquarters of OPA in order to acquaint meat dealers with regulations.

LETTER

book "One Man—Wendell Willkie."

Langer interpreted the correspondence as meaning that Briggs furnished to Sparks, for publication in the book, the letter purporting to have been signed by Harry P[illegible]ns, advisor to President Roosevelt. Hopkins has denounced the letter as a forgery.

Langer also interpreted the correspondence as indicating that Ickes himself had possession of the letter for a time.

Said Ickes today, "I hope that the grand jury will soon find the person guilty of this hoax so as to be able to deal quickly and appropriately with him."

Calls Letter Forgery

Henry A. Schweinhaut, special assistant to Attorney General Biddle, said there was "no doubt" in his mind the so-called "Hopkins letter" purporting to give views of Hopkins about the prospects of presidential candidacy of Willkie this year, was a forgery.

Hopkins has refused the letter, now the subject of a District of Columbia grand jury investigation.

Schweinhaut predicted it would be "demonstrated" the letter was forged and stated he "wouldn't be surprised" if the person responsible was turned up.

The special assistant disclosed that Ickes had expressed a desire to appear before the grand jury in the wake of an address by Senator Langer that an interior department employe was involved in the letter's publication.

Langer named the employe as George N. Briggs, assistant to Ickes, in an address on the senate floor yesterday.

Briggs did not appear at his office this morning, but gave out a statement through his wife, at their home in nearby Alexandria, Va., accusing Langer of attempting to smear Ickes.

Newsmen noted that the Briggs' typewriter and that of his secretary had been removed from his office at the interior department. The federal bureau of investigation said it had no comment on this matter.

Schweinhaut said he "imagined" Briggs would be called before the grand jury.

STEEL WAGE CASE HEADED FOR WLB

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 19—The demands of the CIO-United Steelworkers of America for a 17-cents an hour wage increase for steel industries which would break the "Little Steel" wage formula, was headed today for the war labor board.

A spokesman for the five subsidiaries of the U. S. Steel Corporation announced last night Secretary of Labor Perkins has been asked to certify the negotiations between the corporation and the union to the board for a hearing.

John A. Stephens, vice president of U. S. Steel, declared the union's 17 proposals would cost the corporation alone about $186,000,000 annually, or $9 a ton for finished steel.

"They are of such a nature as not to permit solution in collective bargaining since they either involve departure from the national economic stabilization program or concern fundamental matters of principle on which the respective viewpoints cannot be reconciled," Stephens added.

A spokesman for Philip Murray, president of the Steelworkers, said there would be no comment at this time on the move.

From the time and date which the union has taken in its negotiations with the corporations, which produces about one-third of the nation's steel, it has been generally understood the case will be the one which will act as a test for the entire industry and its 800,000 workers.

U. S. FLIER TACKLES 30 NAZI FIGHTERS

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 19—Maj. James H. Howard of St. Louis, a former "Flying Tiger" who outfought 30 Nazi fighters in a fleeting half-hour over Oschersleben last Tuesday to protect a formation of Flying Fortresses, was hailed by his Mustang pilot-mates today as a "one-man airforce," but he merely said facetiously, "I just seen what looked like my duty and I done it."

The 30-year-old, six-foot-four Missourian buzz-sawed devastatingly into the swarm of Nazis during one of history's greatest air battles to become America's first air-hero veteran of both the Pacific and European theaters.

His exploit rivals the feat of the missing Lt. Comdr. Edward H. (Butch) O'Hare, who single-handed tackled nine Japanese dive-bombers, knocking at least six into the sea, and elevated him to the distinguished and growing roll of American air heroes.

Harding Gymnasts in Show at Galion

Nineteen tumblers and gymnasts from Marion Harding High school under the direction of Vic Dorris will play a leading role in a day-long physical fitness institute to be conducted by and for physical education teachers in this district at Galion Jan. 29.

Participation of the Harding physical department in the institute will be only one of many varied phases of the program showing the streamlined body-building programs employed in high schools throughout this section of the state. In charge of the institute will be Jim Lyncer, football coach and physical education director of Galion High school.

The programs of both boys' and girls' classes will be exhibited at the institute, which is modeled along the same lines of a physical demonstration held at Galion last winter. The girls' demonstrations will be staged in the Junior High school gymnasium and those of the boys in the Senior High school muscle factory.

The institute proper will not officially get under way until 10:30 a. m. Jan. 29. However, registration of all physical education instructors in attendance is scheduled for 9:15 and football pictures have been planned for boxing before 10 a. m. From 10 to 10:30, a general assembly of all instructors and pupils present will be held with M. A. Poyenmire, superintendent of Galion schools, as speaker.

Coach Dorris' tumbling squad, reorganized in November, has been hard at work perfecting their large number of stunts to be given at the institute, which will highlight the squad's 1944 activities. A hand-picked group of 10 boys has been chosen to make the trip to Galion and this group includes many specialists who have been paying especial attention to one gymnastic feat.

Recently added as one of Harding's contributions to the institute are boxing and wrestling. It originally was planned by Director Lymper that Mansfield High's physical ed. students, tutored by Paul Snyder, would do the mitt-wielding and grappling. However because of unforseen developments the local athletes were assigned those additional sports.

The tumbling team will prepare for the institute show with an exhibition between halves of the Harding Upper Sandusky High school Junior Varsity basketball game at Thomas A. Edison gym a week from tonight. It is expected that approximately the entire repertoire of feats to be attempted by the squad at Galion will be first given at the cage encounter.

The complete institute program schedule for Jan. 29 follows:

Special to The Star

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—Looks as if round two of that battle of the minor league convention would begin with baseball's post-war planning committee next month. . . . Judge W. G. Bramham, the minor league boss, didn't spare anyone's feelings in his "suggestions"—least of all the chain operators . . . and as the first reply, President Shag Shaughnessy of the International league pointed out that local ownership of minor league clubs may be the ideal situation, but only such smart baseball men as Earl Mann, Mike Kelley, Jack Dunn and Charley Graham have made it work. . . . The chain system has its faults, but it does provide the best "baseball brains" for the little clubs . . . Wonder where that puts Shag? He's a right smart and independent man but he heads a league in which every club is owned by or closely associated with a major league outfit.

All Star Card Thursday

Gil LaCross

An all star wrestling card has been signed for the weekly show at the Marion Armory. The two hour main event will see Gil LaCross wrestling Buddy Knox. This match may turn out to be a grudge affair over what happened several weeks ago in a tag team match. Both men are short tempered and the fans will see plenty of action before it is over.

The one hour semi-final should turn out to be one of the fastest matches seen in Marion for a long time as it brings together two winners of last weeks matches. Jackie Nichols and Angelo Savoldi. Both of these boys like to wrestle clean and stick to the rules. The one fall opener at 8:30 is between Don Serio and Roughouse Earl Malone. Advance ticket sale at Markert & Lewis Cigar Store. —Adv.

College Cagers Stumble on 13 Victories Jinx

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 — The thirteen seems to be a jinx to winning college basketball quintets.

Last week DePaul's Demons of Chicago, undefeated and boasting a 13-game winning streak, lost to Valparaiso, of Indiana. That left undefeated Camp Grant and Milligan (Tenn.) college with 13-game streaks.

The jinx caught up with Camp Grant last night, Marquette handing the soldiers a surprise 46-39 defeat at Elgin, Ill. The Golden Avalanche got off to an early 17-6 lead and led throughout. The soldiers pulled up 34-33 in the second half before Marquette again crept away.

Milligan, boasting victories over Duke and North Carolina in its long streak, risks the jinx Friday when the Buffs meet Emory and Henry at Bristol, Va.

Second in surprise only to Marquette's triumph was North Carolina's 37 to 33 victory over Duke in a Southern Conference game at Durham.

Legal Break-in Opens Ration Board's Safe

A legalized breakin was staged at the Marion county rationing office Tuesday afternoon with a group of interested persons, including a state investigator, on hand to witness the job.

The principal was Homer Hull of Hull's Lock and Key Shop, who took over the job that would-be burglars muffed the night before when they tried to help themselves to a good supply of precious rationing coupons.

Mr. Hull found the unit knocked off the safe and only a battered spindle remaining. With the help of officials who knew the combination, he worked with the spindle for half an hour and the safe doors swung open.

FAVOR STOCKING LAKE WITH FISH

GALION, Jan. 19—Favorable reaction was shown by both Mayor William Amann and city council Tuesday to the proposal that the new city reservoir on the Hurley farm, southwest of Galion, be stocked with fish.

The proposal was presented by a representative of the state conservation commission, Roceman, who asked that the city and the state enter into an agreement to stock the reservoir with fish and open the lake to the public for fishing. Roceman proposed that Council pass a resolution to keep part of the shore line of the reservoir open for this purpose, stating that public owned bodies of water should be available to the public for fishing.

Several councilmen spoke favorably of the proposition after which it was referred to the water committee. It is expected that action will be taken on the matter at the next meeting of council.

Council also approved the mayor's appointment of Ben Muth to the board of health for a term of five years, succeeding his expired term, and C. A. Castle as a member of the Civil Service Commission for a six year term. Castle succeeds S. S. Motsinger whose term had expired.

The annual report of the police pension board was submitted and approved by council. This showed a balance of $2,679.53. Disbursements for the year for pensions, expenses and the purchase of eight $1,000-War Bonds totaled $7,970.23, while receipts and balance amounted to $10,649.78.

Morgan, Long Lead in Louisiana Vote

By The Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19—Jimmie H. Davis, public service commissioner and song writer, slowly whittled down the lead of Lewis L. Morgan in yesterday's Democratic gubernatorial primary as additional returns came in today from country parishes (counties).

Morgan, backed by the powerful New Orleans old regular-Long organization, jumped into the lead late last night when the city vote was counted. Returns from outlying parishes were slow, since commissioners counted local races first.

Unofficial returns from 544 of the state's 1867 precincts gave Morgan 62,236; Davis 55,398; Rep. James H. Morrison 14,344; Mayor Sam Caldwell of Shreveport, 10,595.

Earl K. Long, brother of the late Senator Huey P. Long and running mate of Morgan, swept into a decisive lead over five opponents in the lieutenant governor race.

CHURCH FUND MEETING YIELDS HALF OF '44 GOAL

Central Christian Building Remodeling Fund Boosted.

Half of the needed financial pledges for this year's campaign for the remodeling project of Central Christian church were made in a "kick-off" dinner in the church dining room Tuesday night.

After the dinner talks were given by various official members of the congregation and lantern slides were shown by Rev. Eldred Johnston depicting different types of church architecture in this country and remodeling plans of other churches. Cutler McGrew, chairman of the official board, explained slides on the proposed remodeling of the Central church building. Elmer Weimer, chairman of the campaign for this year, showed a chart by which progress of the drive will be visualized. The chart is in the form of a large map with a route marked out from San Francisco, Calif., to Marion which will be marked by each "milestone" as finances are raised. It was explained that war bonds may be handed in on a member's pledge instead of cash. The proposed remodeling will be carried out after the war.

Speaking besides Rev. Johnston, Mr. McGrew and Mr. Weimer were Millard Hunt, chairman of the board of elders, Miss Luella Scholl, superintendent of the children's department, Mrs. Paul Emery, president of the Alpha Delta class, Miss Carroll Whirrett, president of the Youth Fellowship, and Lawrence Sager, last year's chairman of the remodeling fund. The pot-luck dinner was served by members of the Jesse Buckley class. Mr. Weimer was toastmaster.

Swiss Paper Reports Nazis Seek Red Peace

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—David Anderson, NBC reporter in Stockholm, said today that Stockholm newspapers are carrying a story to the effect that Adolf Hitler had dispatched semi-official representatives to Ankara to discuss separate peace terms with Russia. The story was credited to the Geneva newspaper La Suisse.

In his broadcast Anderson emphasized that the report appeared to be a German propaganda move to take advantage of the confusion created by the publication in the Moscow newspaper Pravda of a rumor that Britain and Germany had discussed a separate peace.

According to the Stockholm version of the La Suisse story, Anderson said, an important conference had been held in Berlin to consider a possible change in Nazi alliances.

"Shortly after the conference, the Swiss report says, a German courier who 'to a certain extent can be regarded as a semi-official German representative to the Soviet Government' left for Ankara," Anderson continued.

"There he is to meet the German ambassador to Turkey, Von Papen, and the indication is given that he will confer with Russian officials in the Turkish capital. The report further states that the German diplomatic plan for 1944 calls for a separation between Russia and the western powers. It ends by saying that 'the 1939 alliance with Russia can be repeated.'"

Dr. Behan Speaks At Meeting of Rotary

Dr. W. P. Behan, interim pastor of Trinity Baptist church, was guest speaker at the weekly Rotary club luncheon yesterday at Hotel Harding.

He defined five words ending with "ics" which are common today. They are electronics, science of control; logistics, science of distribution; economics, dealing with business; politics, relating to government, and ethics, the application of morals. Following his observations he concluded with this definition of the club, "Rotary is a wheel used for turning the best side of a man to the light."

Guests were Lt. (j. g.) Jack Hanley, Capt. James A. Mautz, both of Marion, D. P. Patterson of Columbia, S. C. and Charles Kirk, Rotarian from Findlay.

Senate Bill Reported To Terminate Subsidies

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—The senate banking committee reported out favorably today the bill of Senator Bankhead (D-Ala) to terminate government subsidies designed to control food prices by June 30 of this year.

Reversing a previous committee vote which rejected the bill a month ago, the committee voted 10 to 9 to send it to the senate floor.

The Bankhead bill is substantially similar to the anti-subsidy legislation passed by the house in November.

Two Republican senators, Taft of Ohio and Tobey of New Hampshire, swung to the support of the bill in today's executive session after having previously opposed it.

HEALTH QUIZ

	YES	NO
Do you have poor digestion?	☐	☐
Do you feel headachy after eating?	☐	☐
Do you get sour or upset easily?	☐	☐
Do you feel tired—listless?	☐	☐

Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat—you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juice—liver bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails—your food may remain undigested—like sour and heavy in your digestive tract.

Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's aid digestion after Nature's own order, when taken as directed. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—at any drugstore—only 25c. You will be glad you did.

GRAIN PRICES TURN HIGHER AT CHICAGO

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 19—An upturn in grain prices based mainly on favorable legislative developments ran into resistance today when the movement of corn from the country expanded to around 600,000 bushels, the largest total purchased on a "to-arrive" basis in many months. About 300,000 bushels were bought yesterday.

Price gains which had ranged to more than a cent in rye during the earlier trading were reduced, although most contracts managed to hold onto small advances. Buying during the forenoon was based upon the action of the senate banking committee in reporting favorably on anti-subsidy legislation and indications the government may vacate an order to divert 200 railroad box cars daily for importing Canadian grains.

STOCK PRICES ON DOWN SIDE

Slow Decline, However, Brings No Marked Increase in Selling.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 Heaviness of industrial leaders swung the stock market over to the downside today.

The slow decline brought no appreciable increase in selling tempo. This was attributed to the idea that some disturbance on the diplomatic front might result from Moscow's recent handling of the quickly repudiated rumors of British-German peace talks.

Among losers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Western Union "A," Westinghouse, Eastman Kodak, J. C. Penney, N. Y. Central and Chesapeake & Ohio. American Can and Johns-Manville were reported around or moderately above previous finals.

GALION CAGERS WIN FROM CRESTLINE

Special to The Star

GALION, Jan. 19 — Galion High school, whose cagers lost to a Harding High quintet last week, defeated Crestline High school, 38 to 31, in a game at Crestline last night. The result of the rough and tumble contest came as a surprise to Galion fans, who had watched Crestline triumph over the Galion cagers Dec. 28. Team spirit was good although numerous fouls were called, and both teams were poor at shooting. Galion held the lead throughout the contest, but Crestline showed a spurt of energy in the third quarter when they rose from a trailing 29 to make the score 30 to 31. In the last quarter Galion chalked up 11 points to win the contest.

A summary of the game follows:

Crestline—31	G.	F.	P.	Galion—38	G.	F.	P.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"I DON'T know," I told Mary truthfully, for the question of what to do with Carolyn, asleep in my bedroom, had been turning in my mind ever since I had received Grandy's message.

"If you want my advice," Mary said decidedly, "which, of course, you don't, I'd put her in a night jacket and tuck in two sturdy pillows to hand as it were, for her waking time."

Mary's Hope

"I most fervently pray," she went on, "that you aren't thinking of having her with us. I'm as sorry about her predicament as that poor kid when she muffins out of her mother's words in more euphemistic terms, young ladies or lady leopards, than that gal on your hen."

"I think you misjudge her," I said, almost mechanically, for ever since her return with Rollo all Carolyn had been a bone of contention between Mary and me. Mary contending that her apparent repentance and humiliation were but tricks to gain my sympathy, while I argued—from the depths of my own convictions—that Carolyn was playing the game with us.

"Maybe so," Mary drawled. "But it's no salt in my peach preserves, anyway you decide. And I know you. She's going along by us—yes?"

Real Uneasiness

She drawled the words laughingly, but I knew there was real uneasiness behind the jape. However, I could not relieve her anxiety, for suddenly there was borne in upon me the conviction which subconsciously I had been trying to dodge—that Carolyn must accompany us to the apartment where we hoped Marion would be brought to us in safety.

"I'm afraid she is, Mary," I said reluctantly.

She made a creditable "flying tackle" from where she stood, and kissed me warmly.

"I'm a beast to bother you," she said remorsefully, "and I can see your viewpoint. She really ought to be present and answering when the role is called. But I'm going to keep one eye cocked on her watchfully and relentlessly."

Glad of Vigilance

"I shall be glad of your vigilance," I told her laughing. "And now, to waken her. While I'm with her, you'd better tell Marston to have a dependable taxi with the guards for which father has arranged ready at the entrance in ten minutes."

"I suppose Aunt Lillian is to be guarded also," she said.

"There are two men over there besides Ronald," I told her. "Father is leaving nothing to chance."

"I'm glad of that!" she said, going back to her packing. "I'll have this closed and locked in 30 seconds, then I'll telephone. An'" as a knock sounded on the outer door, "there's Linda with my traps dollars to doughnuts!"

"Send her back immediately," I said, "for I don't know how Carolyn is going to react, and the fewer around the better."

"I'll just whisper that truth to her and she'll vanish," she promised, and waiting only until I heard her "Lo, Linda!" as she opened the door, I went into my bedroom, closing the door softly after me.

Carolyn Asleep

Carolyn was stretched out on my bed, one arm thrown carelessly above her head. Her face was almost buried in the pillow, and I hated to disturb her, for she sorely needed the sleep, so distraught and frightened had she been since coming down from Westhampton.

I walked noiselessly to the bed, and stooping, put my hand gently on her wrist with a slow, gradual pressure. In a second, her head stirred, so that her face was toward me, and her eyes stared into mine.

"Have I slept too long?" she asked dazedly.

"No, no, dear," I said. "But I had to waken you. There is news, good news, of Marion."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Mental Diseases

It takes no great demand on the imagination for the civilian to realize what stress and strain the mind and the emotions of the soldier or sailor have to endure under modern conditions of warfare. Indeed my observation is that the civilian population thinks about it more than anything else. "How do they stand it?" "How do they endure the strain?" Those are the remarks we hear about us all the time.

It is no great wonder to us, then, to learn that a large number do break. We still have 67,000 mental and personality casualties of World War I in our Veterans' Hospitals and 10,000 men a month are being currently discharged from the army for psychiatric reasons, according to the magazine, "Fortune."

A letter from a friend of mine, a medical officer in Africa, makes special mention of the large number of nervous breakdowns and mental wrecks he had in the hospital. He added they were a pitiful sight.

There are two features of this situation that should be remembered by the public. The first is that these people are really sick, even if they have no wounds or organic disease. It is common practice even among some medical men to say "Oh, there's nothing the matter with him!" What they mean is that there is nothing organic the matter. But that doesn't mean that the trouble is not real or that these men are fit for duty, because they are not. That seems to have been the attitude of General Patton, for instance, and it must be of many others. General Patton didn't seem to think that a medical officer could tell whether a man was fit for duty or not, but his rugged intuition could. That hard contemptuous attitude has been the greatest bar to the proper handling of these cases. A few of the shocked soldiers are fakers, but an experienced psychiatrist can usually spot them.

The second point is that the neuroses of war are the same as the neuroses of peace. War simply supplies the strain and stress that finds the breaking point. If in civilian life some such stress came along the individual would crack just the same.

Objections to the name "shell shock" for these conditions have been voiced, but until a better name comes along, that World War I diagnosis will do quite well. It is true many of them have never been near a bursting shell, but that was true in World War I also. The soldiers call them "eight balls" because Section VIII Army regulations provide for discharge for such cases. Or they are "barrack wacky," or "bomb happy." Air men have "Zeroitis." The coast guard has "convoy jitters."

The symptoms show that "jitters" is a good word for them. They have tremblings. They are unable to concentrate. They are so alert to noises and movements that they seem to keep a constant vigil. Then there comes on a personality change. They are depressed, intolerant of argument, morose, and they assume a feeling of guilt for what is going on.

Of course the draft boards try to screen out these men before they are inducted, and many of them can be made useful for other than combat duty.

Treatment for rehabilitation is carried out by the medical corps using rest, extra feeding, occupational therapy, discussions with the psychiatrist and all forms of psychotherapy. The idea is not so much to return these men to duty, but to prepare them for usefulness on their discharge to civil life.

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, Jan. 20

THE PECULIAR or irregular aspects of this day would seem to urge a policy that might be read as shiny, fake and serious, and not jump into intriguing or dangerous situations or snares without due analysis, consideration and keen rationalizing. The impulse is to act on emotions, and with expediency rather than principle, when making momentous decisions. The easiest way seems the road to take but it is beset with fraud, duplicity and sinister circumstances likely to have an unhappy reaction on position, reputation and health. There may be consolation or sound advice to be had from the domestic, social or affectional associates. Keep firm control on sudden or illicit promptings.

Those who's birthday it is may encounter a year of singular and difficult experiences, with urges and impulses not to be indulged or given unbridled leash as this will lead to pitfalls, snares and complications of a deplorable nature. Peculiar entanglements may prove powerful enough to reflect on the character, reputation, health and social prestige. A safe and sane policy should be rigidly maintained, in business, finance, domestic, social and all other alliances. An undercurrent sinister and sordid is also accompanied by erratic and strange impulses or emotions. Seek wise counsel from true friends.

A child born on this day should be given an understanding and practical analyses as to its inner urge and emotional responses, lest these grow into future menace and defeat.
